These petty farcoury thieves are the pest of all honorable dealers and traders and the trade is as much highway robery as the violent appropriation of their peighbor's purse; in fact, they are beneath the burgier and highway robery as the violent appropriation of their peighbor's purse; in fact, they are beneath the burgier and highway in federal assessins who stab in the dark. And ought they not to be rewarded with a punishment commensurate with the cowardies of their crime? We were led to these remarks by accidentally observing a spirious mannerby it of Undulpho Wolfe's Schiesan Armandame of the law against counterreiting; the bottless were very similar, and everything prepared to impose upon a cardens purchaser. Now is not the man who perpetrated this trand a felion, a volder? Assuredly he is; for, as Mr. Wolfe has expended large sums to bring his gennine imported Schnapps into popular demand, that demand may be justify openied and a barrel of his capital in trade, and a feliow stealing a part of his exputation is as much a thief as if he had alobe a barrel of his Schnapps in bulk.
